CONFEDERATE VETERANS SECOND DAY'S SESSIONS

Routine Business and Some Elections. Many Prominent Visitors Are in Attendance.

Chickasha, Ok., Aug. 27.—With convention hall well-filled, Gen. Richardson presided over the sessions of the United Confederate Veterans yesterday. After an invocation by Comrade Barnett of Ardmore, the report of the committee on order of business was adopted and a credential committee was named. While the latter committee was out, Col. W. F. Gilmer of Ardmore made a talk on the Confederate home, saying that $22,000 had been subscribed for the same and the board in charge expected to have temporary quarters open by Jan. 1, 1910.

By the time of the next reunion, the board expected to have the home at Ardmore completed.

The principal address of the morning was delivered by Rev. Carter Helm Jones of Oklahoma City.

Business transacted at the morning session included the appointment of legislative and grievance committees.

The U. D. C. held a short session, the meeting being called to order by the president, Mrs. W. T. Culbertson.

At a meeting of the Oklahoma Division of Sons of Veterans, Charles B. Emanuel of Sulphur was elected division commander. Gen. Emanuel named Tate Brady of Tulsa as brigade commander of the eastern half of the state and partially selected other officers as follows: E. W. Fagan, Sulphur, judge advocate general; Dr. L. E. Emanuel, Chickasha, surgeon general. Other officers will be named later.

Prominent Visitors

Among the prominent men of the state who are visitors or attendants at the U. C. V. reunion were noticed today Col. A. P. Watson, corporation commissioner of Guthrie; Sidney Suggs, the editor of the Ardmoreite and prospective candidate for governor; Col. Stump Ashby of Texas; Judge J. M. Sandlin, judge of the superior court of Logan county; Dispensary Superintendent Stone of Guthrie; Bill Murdock, ex-representative of Pawnee county; E. J. Giddings, prominent attorney of Oklahoma City; "Uncle Elam," who has the distinction of being the door keeper at the first state senate in Oklahoma; Col. Sneed, register of deeds of Comanche county; J. R. Pulkam, a prominent business man of Ardmore, and W. F. Gilmer, member of the First Legislature from Carter county.

Gov. Haskell, accompanied by Mrs. Haskell and his daughter, Miss Jane, arrived on the early morning train from Dallas, where the governor spoke Tuesday.

PIONEER COUNTY CITIZEN SUICIDES NEAR ROFF

Ad McCarty, Tortured by Disease, Blows Off Top of His Head With Shot Gun.

Roff Eagle—Monday afternoon word was brought to town that Ad McCarty, an old and highly respected citizen living about 4 miles southwest of Roff, had committed suicide by blowing his head off with a shotgun. Dr. Orr and several others went out to view the scene and late in the evening the remains were brought to town and placed in the J. P. Jones Co. store, where preparation for burial was made.

The weapon used was a shotgun and the muzzle of the gun had evidently been placed in his mouth, resulting in blowing off the entire top of his head. The charge was BB shot and mutilated his features horribly.

Uncle Dick Elliott was intimately acquainted with the deceased and told us that he had suffered from rheumatism until lately the rheumatism had left him and his kidneys had been giving him a great deal of trouble. He further stated that the deceased did not have an enemy in the world and was in every respect a good citizen. He thought his health was the cause of the suicide.

The remains were interred at the Dolberg cemetery on Tuesday evening and the funeral services were held at the graveside.

"GOD MAY SEND A CYCLONE TO ADA"

EVANGELIST SOUNDS A WARNING THAT PEOPLE SHOULD AWAKE TO REALIZATION OF DANGER.

AN ATMOSPHERE OF COLDNESS

Evangelist Says that in 24 Years of Preaching He Never Preached to So Many People With So Little Results.

"Governor Hughes of New York, one of the greatest men in the world, is a Christian. Nearly all of the governors of states, supreme judges and men in high places are Christians. George Washington was a Christian. Most great men of modern times were and are Christians.

"The social evils is worse than the liquor business and more people are being damned by it than by liquor. It is our worst evil.

"When a man hits bottom the only good I can see in the situation is that there is a chance for him to turn and come up again to the top.

"No one can be saved until he says 'I will.' 'I will' is the spirit that accomplishes all things and moves the world.

"God has blessed my twenty-four years of evangelistic work with over sixty thousand conversions.

"Give God a chance and he will make a good man or good woman of you. Give him the same chance that some person whom you look upon as an enviable model gave Him and maybe He will make more of you than He did of them. You may be better material. Say: 'I will give God a chance.'

"The greatest and noblest act of a man's life is to surrender to God.

"The man who joins the church and lives for God will keep out of trouble. A backslider is a cat's paw for the Devil. There are lots of people in the church who don't serve God.

"I am forty-seven years old and never owned a pistol and I was never before a judge but once and that was for fighting, and the judge discharged me. I am sorry that I have to say 'only once.' I wish I could say 'not once.'

"It's always the man with the gun that gets hurt and in trouble. He gets gun shy and is liable to shoot himself by accident from being so nervous."

With characteristic force Evangelist Sid Williams addressed another great audience last night. The attention of the hearers was fine and the interest intense but visible results were disappointing to the preacher and Christian people. One confession was made, a young boy, and two members of the church presented letters for membership.

The Prodigal Son.

The subject of the sermon was the Prodigal Son and the central theme of the discourse was the will. It was the exercise of will after he had reached the lowest depths that made the prodigal son say "I will arise and go to my father." Without the "I will" he would never have returned and would have been lost. Any one can come to God if he but says "I will," but unless a man wills to be saved he never can be saved.

"I will" has accomplished all the great things of the world. "I will" makes people do things that seem remarkable. "I will" puts speed into people's feet. The preacher told an incident of his boyhood days when he left home at noon, walked twenty-five miles and got $500 of money for his father, walked back and was safely in bed before midnight. It was the will to do that enabled him to accomplish this feat in the Alabama woods.

There are three great essentials in turning to God and living the Christian life: will, integrity and humility. "Try" and "maybe" are no good. "I will" succeeds. Senator Bailey when a boy in the university of Mississippi said that he had his goal set for the United States senate. He achieved his goal because of his great will power.

"It took me eight years to persuade my wife to marry me—and I reckon a lot of you men are in the same fix. It just takes will power to win what you want."

All men sin and all men must be honest and confess to God—not to men. One must be willing to be a servant, not ask to be a son, and, like the prodigal, God will make them sons and put on them his robe of righteousness, the ring of his love and the shoes of his promises.

All are prodigal and God waits for all. "Men, how many of you could stand on the brink of the grave tonight and say 'it is well with my soul?'"

Sounds a Warning.

After the invitation had been given the evangelist talked quietly and seriously to the people. He said:

"It may take a cyclone to bring this town to Christ, and you may get it. I'm no prophet but I've had some very queer feelings since opening this meeting. I have been preaching for twenty-four years but I never preached to so many people and saw so few to manifest sincere interest, so few to ask for prayers and so few to confess their faith. God may bring judgment upon you. There has been an atmosphere of coldness about this meeting and I wonder in midnight prayer in my room what is the matter.

"My spirit shall not always strive with man," said the Lord. "He that knoweth my Father's will and doeth it not the same shall be beaten with many stripes." God is a God of love, but don't defy Him!

"I want all Christians to pray for me, for I can't stand this much longer. I don't want to waste time entertaining you good people here. I have a higher aim than mere entertainment. I will go on over to Brown wood, where I have had one grand meeting with over a hundred converts, and will leave you without farther present effort."

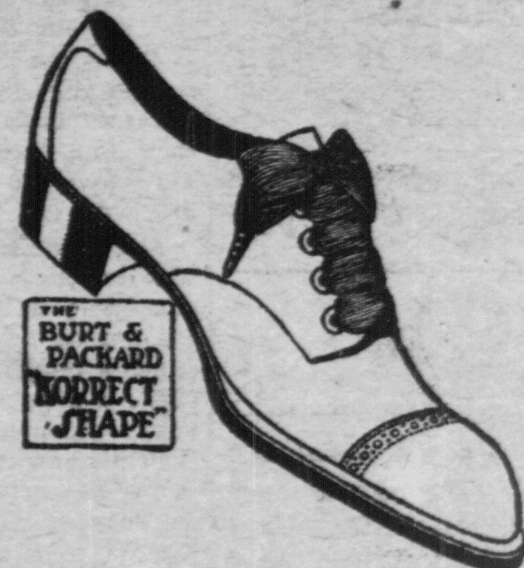

"If you don't do something for me I'll do something for you—I'll tell you all good-bye."

Afternoon Meetings.

A special Sunday afternoon prayer meeting has been arranged to be held at the Baptist church at 4 o'clock. At this meeting only men are expected to be present and President Briles of the State Normal will deliver an address. It is hoped the room will be filled with men at this service.

will be a men's prayer meeting at 4 o'clock at the 25,000 club rooms. These meetings will last just half an hour. All men are urged to come, particularly the business men. Never in the history of the country were so many business men, men of affairs, who are taking an active interest in Christian work.

There will also be a women's prayer meeting at the same hour each afternoon at the church. The women and girls are particularly urged to attend these meetings.

Every forenoon at 10 o'clock there is a general meeting at the church. The preacher urged that the mothers of the city try to attend these meetings and bring the children. "Never," said the preacher, "have I preached in a place where there are so few children attending the services." He sounded a warning to the people that unless the children were kept off the streets and trained in ways of right living that the future of the city and community is in peril.

"Let God get the children before the street and the Devil get them."

AT THE CHURCH.

The pulpit at the revival tabernacle, each evening, presents an attractive and inspiring appearance. In the center is the indomitable man of God, the evangelist, Sid Williams, powerful representative. Near him sits the alert, devout and intelligent pastor, Brother Stubblefield. To the rear is the choir, composed of refined and Christian people singing with spirit and with harmoniousness, lead by the attractive and cultured daughter of the evangelist, Miss Stone Williams.

By the side of the organ sits little Sid Williams Jr., violinist accompanist, playing with the ease and intelligence of a savant.

Without the spirit visitation, merely the respect for the good and beautiful, were ample to maintain the evening crowds near—even above—the thousand mark.

The apparent gathering manifestations would incline a confidence that there will be the visitation of the spirit and that the evangelist may feel the call of remaining over in Ada a little longer.

Interstate Rifle Contest.

Guthrie, Ok., Aug. 26.—Arrangements are being made at the present time between Col. Roy Hoffman of the First Regiment of the Oklahoma National Guard and Col. Cecil Leethman of the Third Missouri Regiment of National Guard at Kansas City, to have an interstate rifle contest to be held on the Oklahoma State range near Chandler on Thanksgiving Day. The National Guards of Texas and Kansas will also be asked to send men to enter that event.

WHY DON'T YOU HELP?

The Roff Eagle this week says editorially, concerning our recent publication of criticisms made against the sheriff's office:

If the Ada News would take up
all the savory stories afloat relative to county officials instead of singling out the sheriff to vent its spleen, the people might take some stock in its homilies and week-day sermons. Singling out one man and finding fault with him but strengthens him with a people that believe in fair play.
Nevertheless, the people of the county have several county officials under discussion, and the people are the court of last resort.

Now by these and similar utterances the Eagle puts itself in the class with others who have attempted to reply to these published criticisms—that is they just say things about the News but do not even attempt to reply to the criticisms.

These criticisms are not being made by the News alone. We have made some criticism on our own behalf and still stand by the proposition that the criticisms are well founded and that they stand yet unanswered. We have also published criticisms made by others, and we believe these criticisms are honest and well founded and that they also stand unanswered.

Now the Eagle only makes itself appear neglecting its plain duty when the editor attempts to cover the matter by insinuating against other county officials. If the Eagle knows of any misconduct or can find good ground for criticising the conduct of any public office it is the plain duty of that paper to expose the same so that the people may know.
The people have a right to know and it is the duty of the press to let the people know. But it is not the duty nor should it be the privilege of the press to besmirch by mere insinuation and innuendo the conduct of any office.

What the people want is fact and not fiction, direct criticism of specific acts and not insinuations in general.
If the Eagle knows of bad practices
in any county office let the editor boldly bring them to light. If the charges are well founded The News will willingly lend its assistance in publishing official corruption.

Quit this insinuating and get down to facts.

OKLAHOMA SIFTINGS.

During the month of July there were shipped out of Ingersoll seventy-three cars of wheat, a total of 75-$90 bushels of wheat, which sold on an average of $1 per bushel.

The Farmers' Union executive board appointed to locate the People's packing plant, by a vote of 5
to 1, selected Enid over El Reno.
The sum given by Enid was $240-$00 and 160 acres of land.

Notice of dissolution of the Indian Cotton Company of Durant has been recorded with the Secretary of state.
Charter was issued to the Red River Valley Cotton Company its successor,
also of Durant, with $10,000 capital stock.

The controller of the currency announces that the Capital National total of 65 per cent of the deposits

paid and authorized to be paid up.

POWER IN TURKEY

GREAT MAN INDEED IS THE TCHELEBI OF KONIAH.

Next to the Sultan Ranks the Head of the Dervishes, Whom the Mass of the People Fear and Love.

Next to the sultan, the Tchelebi of Koniah, who was summoned sooner than was planned to gird the sword of Osman upon Mehemed V., is the greatest personage in the Ottoman empire,
for he is the direct descendant of Ala Eddin, sultan of the Seljuks, who gave up his title to the founder of the present dynasty. Osman the illustrious, so as to be able to lead a retired life. This happened early in the fourteenth century, and ever since then the descendants of Ala Eddin
have invested the sultan by girding
him with Osman's sword.

The Tchelebi and his followers,
who are rich in land and live in a monastery at Koniah in Asia Minor, are known to the European world as dancing dervishes. A dervish can be either a dancing or a howling dervish,
but a dancing dervish ranks higher than his howling brother. Their ceremony, as performed in a stifling hall
on Tuesdays and Fridays in Pera or Scutari, seems to the tourist rather comical, but behind it lies that deep reverence for the prophet and the fanaticism of the faithful. It is through the dervishes that the Turkish masses understand their religion.
Therefore, they are not to be despised, even by the tourist, whilst to the historian they form a link between modern religion and the long-forgotten practices of ancient Egypt.

Each dervish, on entering Tchele-bi's monastery, has to take a vow of chastity, poverty and obedience, his calling answering to that of the monk of western ideas. All the same they are allowed to marry and have a house in the town, though they must pass at least two nights a week in their monastery. Neither do they keep strictly to the vow of poverty,
for besides a trade, many get large sums as presents from the faithful.
Humility of soul they profess; but no man has a prouder manner and exterior than a dervish. The monastery of Koniah, over which Tchelebi rules,
is very large indeed; but the usual number of inmates in such places is about 40. Their chief is called a sheik or Grand Mufti. They get their food and lodging free, and are supposed to take their meals alone in their cells. To the European mind, however, they seem to spend most of their time in cafes and other public places, where they harangue the people and receive "presents"—begging is supposed to be forbidden. They go long journeys; the Koniah dervishes often reaching India. Every Mohammedan offers them food and lodging on the way, so they get there for nothing.

Amongst the more educated Turks
they have lost much of their ancient prestige and they have come down to be mere conjurers. But the people fear and love them, and did Tchelebi
of Koniah refuse to gird on Osman's sword, or did the sultan abolish the ceremony, millions of the faithful would refuse to acknowledge Mehemed V. as their caliph. There are, in the Ottoman empire, about six of these monasteries, which the Turks call Mevlvi, from the name of their founder—Mevlevahina-Djellah-Eddinel-Roumi. They have a tekha or convent at Pera, Constantinople; and a room at Scutari, where they perform their exercises.

A Wedding Hint.

The tall girl smiled in some embarrassment.

"Have you any second-hand shoes?"
she said to the shoe clerk.

"But, miss—" he remonstrated.

No, no; you misunderstand," said she. "I don't mean to wear. I just mean old shoes, too worn for use, that customers have left with you. You see, there's a wedding up at our house to-morrow and we want something to throw at the bride and groom."

"I see," said the clerk.

He rummaged in a black hole, and drew forth an armful of dilapidated footwear. The girl selected some threes, twos, and ones.

"These will do. Thanks ever so much," she said, and so departed.

"Big-footed people are always working that on us," said the clerk afterward. "That girl wears eights. She couldn't very well throw such mudscocks at the bride, so she chose some little and dainty shoes here—ones and twos. Oh, yes, it's an old trick with the big-footed."

Foolish Christians.

Dr. Parkhurst, in an address in Brooklyn, condemned those who wrangle over religious tenets of no importance.

"Such people," he said, "give Christianity a bad name. He must have been brought up among such people,
the little Brooklyn boy who on being asked to define the word 'heathen,'
said:

"Heathen are people who don't fight over religion."

The Embarrassed Model.

"I had the craziest model the other day," the girl artist said. "When he had sat for about an hour he blushed and said:

"Don't stare at me so hard. You make me embarrassed."

"What was I paying him 50 cents
an hour for, then?"

Miss Adams our trimmer will be here next Monday with a big stock of pattern hats and trimmings. Ladies don't buy a hat before you see our grand selection of millinery goods at the Grand Leader, Ada.

Mr. Sonheimer, formerly employed with I. Harris, has returned to Ada and will have charge of the clothing department of the Texas Department store. Mr. Sonheimer expected to locate elsewhere but he met Manager Wall in St. Louis and was persuaded to return to Ada and take charge of the clothing department. Mr. Wall having just closed a deal whereby he secured a big stock of goods at bankrupt figures and being anxious to have Mr. Sonheimer take charge of it.

Miss Clyde Allen has been added to the sales force at the W. I. Reeves & Company store and will assume her duties there on September 1st.

Just opened a new lot of new waists. Fall style put on our ten big bargain days price. Grand Leader, Ada.

Manager Wall of the Texas Department store returned last evening from St. Louis where he had been for some time past making purchases of goods for the fall and winter trade. He secured some exceptional bargains, buying out one big stock of new goods of a firm failing in business. He expects to conduct some sales that will startle the people of this community. It will pay to keep close tab on the advertising of this store.

W. J. Reed, the pioneer merchant of Ada, has arranged for an extended business trip to the clothing, dry goods and shoe markets of the east and will leave Sunday or Monday next. He will buy stock for all departments of his store and by the middle of September the stock will be the best and largest he has carried for years. He also announces today that he has adopted a fixed policy of profits, making his prices on everything a uniform ten per cent. "I am going to stick to that policy as long as I run this store. If I can't win on that policy I will quit the business," said Mr. Reed this morning.

CHILD LABOR LAW WILL BE ENFORCED TO THE LETTER

Commissioner Daugherty Preparing to See to It That This Law Is Observed in Every Point.

Guthrie, August 27.—Commissioner of Labor, Chas. Daugherty, is preparing to strictly enforce the provisions of Senate Bill No. 11, known as the Child Labor Law introduced by Wm. Franklin the senator from Marshall county. Among the provisions of this bill is one prohibiting all children under the age of fourteen years from working in any factory, work-shop, theatre, bowling-alley, pool-hall, steam laundry or any other place injurious to health or morals, or especially hazardous to life or limb. All children under the age of sixteen and all girls and women are prohibited from working under ground in any mine or quarry. All girls under the age of 16 are prohibited from selling newspapers or periodicals on the streets or out of door places in the cities.

Section 6 of the bill provides that no child under the age of 16 years shall be employed, permitted or suffered to work in any gainful occupation except agriculture or domestic service, more than eight hours in any one day, allowing one hour each day for noon day meal and rest, or more than forty hours in any one week. During the time that a child is at work at such occupation the employee must provide suitable seats and permit their use so far as the nature of the work allows. The law provides that employers must keep at their place of business a certificate of schooling showing the name of the child and certifying that said child can read and write simple sentences in the English language and that the child attended school during the full school term of the preceding year.

Commissioner Daugherty says that it is the intention of his department to enforce the law to the letter.

STATE BOARD AGRICULTURE DOING EXCELLENT WORK

Secure Dissolution of Injunction Hindering Efforts of the Board at Tick Eradication.

Guthrie, Aug. 27.—The work of the State Board of Agriculture in advancing the interests of animal industry by the eradication of the fever tick from certain infected portions of the state received a big boost yesterday in the district court of Lincoln county.

The County Commissioners of that county, assisted by the State Board of Agriculture as well as by the Federal Board of Agriculture, are engaged in the work of eradicating the fever ticks from that portion of the state so that it may be placed above the federal quarantine line. Certain parties in Lincoln county obtained a temporary injunction restraining the county commissioners from levying a tax and paying the expenses incident to dipping the cattle, also restraining the inspectors of the county, state and federal government from dipping the cattle.

There was really but one serious question involved and it is a question of general interest all over the state. The plaintiffs alleged that the Board of County Commissioners were without authority to prosecute the work of tick eradication except when petitioned to do so by a majority of the qualified voters of the county as shown by the last election returns.

Judge Robertson of Chandler, decided in favor of the defendants and dissolved the injunction, stating that in his opinion that the law was perfectly plain and that it gave ample authority to the board of commissioners to proceed without any petition, that the petition, as provided in the law, was for the use of the people in compelling a board of county commissioners to perform this work should they refuse or neglect to do so.

PROF. CAMERON ANNOUNCES FOR RE-ELECTION AS SUPT.

Following His Announcement That He Would Not Enter the Contest for Governor.

Guthrie, Ok., Aug. 27.—Of great political importance in Oklahoma is the announcement of state superintendent E. D. Cameron that he will be a candidate in the democratic primaries for renomination as state school superintendent, following his announcement on the day previous that he would not enter the race for the gubernatorial nomination. Had he entered the race he probably would have been an important factor, as he would have the school organization and the church element behind him in the primaries. He is now engaged in active ministerial work, being the pastor of the Baptist church here in addition to his work in the state office.

"I will not make the demagogic talk that I do not care to be governor of Oklahoma," said Rev. Mr. Cameron today, "for I would like to be governor, as I think every man in the state would like to be. I believe I might have won the gubernatorial nomination, but for several reasons I decided to remain out of the race and stand for re-election. I could not afford to make the canvass for governor. Then I feel that I could be of greater service to the state at the head of the school system."

"As Territorial superintendent I organized all but four of the counties, and as state superintendent I have charge of the organization of the other new counties, so that I have organized the school system of seventy-two of the seventy-six counties of the state. The industrial branches, agricultural and domestic science have been installed in the Oklahoma schools under my direction. Most of the school laws have been enacted during my tenure of office and I feel that I am more familiar with school law than any man in the state. It is these considerations that caused me to decide to stand for re-election."

Rev. Mr. Cameron claims to have made the first public speech in Oklahoma in advocacy of the separate school laws. Shortly after his appointment by Gov. Renfrow as state superintendent a delegation of negroes, headed by a negro named Dunjee, who conducted a school near Shawnee, and a negro lawyer named Randolph, who still lives at Oklahoma City, made application for enrollment at the Central State Normal school at Edmond. Rev. Mr. Cameron called a meeting of the citizens of Edmond, which was also attended by the negroes and during his address declared that the negroes would be kept out of the Edmond school if a resort to shotguns was necessary to accomplish the result. Though he took this firm stand, he advocated the passage of a law for separate but equal school facilities and for a state normal university, combining the features of the agricultural and normal colleges and the state university, to be attended only by negroes. The negroes also declared in favor of such a system and left satisfied. It was almost four years later, however, before the separate school law was passed and the Langston state school for negroes was established.

Rev. Mr. Cameron was born in North Carolina and is a graduate of a law school there. In addition to being a minister and state superintendent, he has been admitted as an attorney to practice before the state supreme court and the inferior court of Oklahoma. He located in Texas twenty years ago and came to Oklahoma in 1890, locating at Norman, where he formed the acquaintance of Gov. Renfrow, then a banker. From Norman he went to El Reno and was appointed Territorial superintendent and auditor from there. He has also resided at Lawton and Sulphur, Ok., living at the latter place when he was elected state superintendent.

A Sharp Experience. "So Jagsby got scratched in the race for his aunt's money?" "Yes."

"How did it happen?" "I guess he was scratched by the clause in her will."

A Question Barred. "No pugilist ever asks anybody if it is hot enough for him," said the merry jester.

"Why not?" "It might start a real fight."

The Official Goat. "Your wife doesn't seem to care much for that friend of yours."

"No; he's the man I lay the blame on when I'm detained downtown."

MAN'S FIRST CONSIDERATION HEALTH, HAPPINESS, CONTENT

Health is certainly more valuable than money, because it is by health that money is procured; but thousands and millions are of small avail to alleviate the protracted tortures of the gout, to repair the broken organs of sense, or resuscitate the powers of digestion. Poverty is, indeed, an evil from which we naturally fly, but let us not run from one enemy to another, nor take shelter in the arms of sickness.

In these days, half our diseases come from the neglect of the body in the overwork of the brain. In this railway age, the wear and tear of labor and intellect go on without pause or self-pity. We live longer than our forefathers, but we suffer more from a thousand artificial anxieties and cares. They fatigued only the muscles, we exhaust the finer strength of the nerves.

Health is the soul that animates all enjoyments of life, which fade and are tasteless, if not dead, without it. A man starves at the best and the greatest tables, makes faces at the noblest and most delicate wines, is poor and wretched in the midst of the greatest treasures and fortunes, with common diseases; strength grows decrepit, youth loses all vigor, and beauty all charms; music grows harsh, and conversation disagreeable; There is no kind of achievement palaces are prisons, or of equal confinement; riches are useless, honor and attendance are cumbersome, and crowns themselves are a burden; but if diseases are painful and violent, they equal all conditions of life, make no difference between a prince and a beggar; and a fit of the stone or the colic puts a king on the rack, and makes him as miserable as he can be the meanest, the worst and most criminal of his subjects.

Carlyle in his address to students says: "Finally, gentlemen, I have one advice to give you, which is practically of great importance, though a very humble one. In the midst of your zeal and ardor—for such, I foresee, will rise high enough in spite of all the counsels to moderate it that can give you—remember the care of your health. I have no doubt you have among you young souls ardently bent to consider life cheap, for the purpose of getting forward in what they are aiming at; but you are to consider throughout much more than is done at present—and what would have been a very great thing for me if I had been able to consider it—that health is a thing to be attended to continually; that you are to regard it as the very highest of all temporal things for you.

There is no kind of achievement you could make in the world that is equal to perfect health. What to it are nuggets and millions? The French financier said, "Why is there no sleep to be sold?" Sleep was then in the market at any quotation.

One of the best foundations you can give your children for a life of usefulness and happiness is a healthy body. Perfect physical health induces mental and moral health and strength. If you would give to the world men and women sound in judgment, pure in thought, with loving hearts, add to culture wholesome food, regular habits, plenty of sleep and outdoor exercise. An unimpaired digestion is a fortune to any child, and is a security for cheerfulness, and usually among, happy and useful life. Therefore, as you value such a boon for your child, see that in youth he does not lose it all by indulgence in candy, pickles, cake and pastry, and "sitting up till mamma's bedtime."

Ralph Waldo Emerson says: "The best part of health is a fine disposition." It is more essential than talent. Nothing will supply the want of sunshine to peaches; and to make knowledge valuable you must have the cheerfulness of wisdom. When ever you are sincerely pleased you are nourished. The joy of the spirit indicates its strength. All healthy things are sweet-tempered. It is observed that a depression of spirits develops the germs of a plague in individuals and nations.

Everybody should plan to have pleasant conversation at the table just as they have good food. A little story tell, a little reading, it may be of humorous things; anecdotes will often stimulate the joyous element of the mind and cause it to act vigorously. Try and avoid going to the table all tired out. Let all troublesome topics be avoided. Think and say something pleasant. Cultivate mirth, and laugh when anything witty is said. If possible never eat alone. Invite a friend of whom you are fond and try to have a good time, friendship and friendly intercourse at the table whet the appetite and promote the flow of animal spirits.

Nothing is more unsatisfactory than to sit down day after day to the same bill of fare. There are houses where the mistress seems to have no inventive faculty, acquired or innate. Breakfast consist from Monday until Saturday of the same fried pork and potatoes, or sausage and cakes. Remnants of things come on again and again, growing small by degrees, till one grows tired of seeing the dish of apple sauce or the saucer of prunes, and is tempted to give them to the dog or pigs. All this can be remedied by a little pains. Manage for your own family as if you had guests, and vary the arrangements of your table and the articles of your diet. Health will be preserved thus, and dyspepsia averted.

At the railroad speed we live in the United States, says the New York Times, the mental strain men are put to requires that they should not only have good food, but variety is necessary. It is not very certain that it is more expensive to prepare a dinner of five or six different kinds of food than of one kind, but the advantage to be derived from such extra pains cannot be calculated.

"I hold," remarks a physician, "that thirty minutes should be spent at each meal, and spent, too, in chewing the food a good portion of the time, and not in continued putting in and swallowing; and in pleasant chat and laugh, instead of the continuance of the intense nervous pressure of the office or library. If you lay out to spend thirty minutes in this way at your meals, you may rest assured you will not eat too much, and what you do eat will be in the best condition for appropriation to the needs of your system."

Many feeble men or delicate women of to-day owe the helplessness of their lives to the ignorance of sanitary laws of the parents of forty or fifty years ago, even as fifty years hence our children may have to reproach us for that system of over-feeding, and especially overdrinking, which many doctors now advocate for the young generation. I doubt if even the calomel powders, jalap and gin, primrose and treacle of our tormented childhood were worse than the meat three times a day, the brandy and the daily glass of wine, poured into the innocent little stomachs, which naturally would keep to the infant's food of bread and milk, and almost nothing besides. Certainly, not stimulants.

A child naturally cries when it is hurt, and it is cruel to try to hush its cries by threats. A thousand times better is it to soothe it by stories, pictures, or by providing it with new toys. Says a famous doctor: "We have many times, in our professional experience with children, found more benefit to be derived from a beautiful or interesting toy than from a dose of physic." The greatest humanity that a mother can exhibit, in respect to her sick child, is to divert it in all possible ways. Plenty of glass is exceedingly important in the south side of a house. Much of the moral, as well as mental and physical, ill that human flesh is heir to, is attributable to lack of sunshine, especially in winter, in the homes of the people. An extra window or two in the south side of the house would save many a headache, as well as headache, by creating cheerfulness. It would likewise save many a brain from losing its sanctuaries is also the useful. It is the smile upon the face of the hard experiences of the world, the music that comes from heaven amid the discords of human life.

A well known American gentleman says: "When I was young, I remember, my father, from a conscientious feeling, I suppose, that he ought to do something positive for my mental and moral good and general aesthetic cultivation, made me learn Pope's 'Messiah' by heart, and a number of other masterpieces of the same character. He might just as well have tried to feed a sucking baby on roast beef and Scotch ale! Without understanding a word of it, I learned the 'Messiah' by rote, and I have hated it, and its author, too, from that day to this, and I hate them now. So, also, I remember well, when I was a boy of from ten to fourteen—for I was considerable devourer of books—being incited to read Hume's 'History of England' and Robertson's 'Charles V.' and Gibbon's 'Rome' even, and I am not sure I might not add Mitford's 'Greece.' I can't now say it was time thrown away; but it was almost that. The first thing in trying to stimulate a love for reading is to be careful to create disgust by trying to do too much. The great masterpieces of human research and eloquence and fancy are to boys pure nuisances. They can't understand them; they can't appreciate them if they do."

SUNDAY BASEBALL AND CHURCH MEMBERS.

A subscriber is in trouble over Sunday baseball, and wishes us to state whether or not churches should tolerate this particular kind of Sabbath desecration on the part of their members, and what a church should do in the matter when it has members who persist in Sunday ball playing. This raises a question of great proportions and of a most serious nature. We could wish that very many others besides our troubled subscriber would become troubled over this matter. The command to "remember the Sabbath day and keep it holy" is becoming almost alarmingly unpopular. Sunday base ball is only one of many kinds of Sabbath desecration. Commercial interests and the pursuit of worldly pleasures are showing less and less regard for God's holy day as the years go by. Sunday base ball has come to be one of the most popular as well as one of the most universal forms of Sabbath desecration. But it is the low tone of Sabbath observance that has made it possible for Sunday base ball to gain such headway, and this is why protest against this popular sin is so feeble and futile. Thousands of boys are being started on the way to the bad, and hundreds of communities are being demoralized by Sunday base ball. We are in close touch with communities that are morally and religiously in a bad way as a result of Sunday ball playing.

No, we do not believe that a church can afford to have its members play ball on Sunday or attend the game. Such members should be wisely and lovingly instructed, advised and entreated. They should be shown the sin of it. If, after they are patiently and kindly labored with, they refuse to "hear the church," then they should be excluded.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.
